Modern brands are now able to connect directly with their audience throughout the entire customer experience. The speed between emotional connection and purchase has never been faster.

But balancing long-term brand building with short-term sales can be challenging. While great product offerings coupled with advertising monies are key drivers for both, without the right balance of top-funnel awareness and bottom-funnel conversions, brands can struggle to evolve and grow.

As your partner agency, we help you build digital content, scale your audiences, and drive sales by offering integrated brand experiences unlike any other. Global in our outlook and tastes, we blend classic and emerging design thinking and intelligence for meaningful collaborations.

we were customer - centric long before it became a buzz word

It all began in Mumbai city. 6 years ago. A rainy afternoon. Two steaming cups of espresso - one ours, one that of a confused client. All it took were two leaps of faith, one from both sides of the table.

Since then, we may have moved on from client to client, but our obsession with the combination of creativity and design experience remains unchanged.

We ask questions, experiment, strategize, scrap out, and start again to unwaveringly focus on the next big thing- you. It is hence very important for us to create a culture of collaboration with you, understand, process, envision and in turn brace for the challenge you're about to throw at us. Let us be there in the most challenging part of your transformation and see the difference!

because why shouldn't you?

We started as entrepreneurs in 2013 who wanted to build something. So we did. Today, we help others build their businesses by listening as closely as we can. It works for us because we've been there. We've seen the successes and failures. We know how to find and connect to an audience. We speak your language and we fully understand the worth of that twinkle in your eye.

DESIGN THINKING

Anyone can approach the world like a designer. But to unlock greater potential and to learn how to work as a dynamic problem solver, creative confidence is key. To think like a designer requires dreaming up wild ideas, taking time to tinker and test, and being willing to fail early and often. The designer's mindset embraces empathy, optimism, iteration, creativity, and most importantly, ambiguity.

our belief in design thinking keeps people at the center of every process

At The Cat's Pajamas, we're all human centered designers.

Throughout our experiences, we've realized that as long as we stay focused on the people we're designing for—and listen to them directly—we can arrive at optimal solutions that meet their needs.

Proactive segmentation, intelligent spends planning or a second-to-none strategy- the undeniable fact still remains that the fate of every brand, both yours and ours, lies in the hands of people. But people don't choose brands that don't mean anything to them. This is why, the universal challenge- that of making ourselves matter, is still open.

It can mean you breaking the rules, or making new ones. It can mean bold and brave communication.

It could be your empathy, your people, your product adaptability or your trust in design intelligence. It could mean revolution. Or maybe just evolution. But one thing is undeniable - it cannot mean your indifference.

A lot of brands are making a lot of noise.

Now, it's you against them.

and design thinking is a promising win

Crossing the creative divide will now be easy.

It's time for intelligence to have some fun.

DIVIDE

going [⚡] for gold चले चलो

Design is like alchemy. A little of this, a dash of that, and a hint of something new can turn a simple marketing idea into gold.

While the this-and-that varies by brief, client vision and agency, at The Cat's Pajamas, we are a team of alchemists in our own right.

Blending art with algorithms and creativity with data, we help clients to move the needle on their business.

Our team demonstrates this ability - the one to conjure results by melding forces of the old and new.

Timeless storytelling is combined with a dollop of golden global experiences, and elemental human behaviour is tapped into by using real-time behavioural referencing.

Whatever the combo, our efforts have a proven record of having had impact on both business outcomes and creative benchmarks.

creativity isn't the ability to draw or compose or understanding the world* //

We offer large-firm expertise combined with small-firm responsiveness. We love big messy challenges as much as we love the simple stuff. We are opinionated and passionate. Yeah, we do talk a lot about strategy and approach, but in the end, we only want to create stuff that makes you happy; something that you see as a value-add.

Soon after I had completed my MBA, as a obvious lost child trying to explore uncharted waters, I found myself at a product design group summit. Designers from the best universities were asking the most wayward questions - about technology, brands, experiences, customer support and buying urges. This was probably my first 'aha' moment - they were actually trying to stir up emotions so that they could later solve problems in people's lives!

I wanted in on that, so I jumped into the world in the best capacity I could and almost immediately so.

No, I don't have any pedigree in design, but I realized even before I launched my business that design is more about experience than aesthetic. It is dangerous for business owners to assume design is only about how something looks. It's really about emotions: How do you want customers to feel? How do you want the whole experience to unfold? I think without that early attention to design, brands cannot fully make the impact that they set out to make. Companies that want to raise eyebrows need to ask: How can we bring design thinking into the highest and lowest levels of the organization?

We tend to see these as very finite roles- designer, artist, entrepreneur. But at the foundation, they're all the same thing: creative problem solving.

Anything where design can make a difference and the other entrepreneurs aren't yet exploring- that's where the opportunity lies - and that is what I wish to capitalize early on.
